HARRY LUCK GETS WELCOME AT PLAZA FROM LOCAL FRIENDS

"Where's my wife?" yelled Harry Luck as he ran upon the stage during the presentation of the French musical farce, "Pretty Polly," at the Plaza yesterday afternoon and the recognizing him greeted his appearance with vociferous applause. Harry wasn't really looking for his spouse, in fact, we doubt if he is married at all and we sincerely hope he is not in the interest of the many fair young maidens who were really smitten by Harry's charms during his engagement with the Calburn players and whose love dreams would be cruelly shattered were such the case. He was simply playing one of the principal roles in the piece and playing it well as his many friends and admirers among yesterday's audiences will agree. Harry made his first local appearance with the Calburn Players in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" as the modern Sherlock Holmes and he had little difficulty in working his way to the foremost ranks of popularity during the remainder of that season. He made many friends in this city and says he was delightfully surprised to find Bridgeport was among the few New England cities in which the act is to appear. With Mr. Luck is Thos. Hoier, composer of "Don't Bite the Hand That's Feeding You."

NEWSDEALERS' ASSO. HAS SHORE DINNER

Members of the Bridgeport Newsdealers' association enjoyed their annual dinner at Lehman's shore house last evening. The committee of arrangements was Nils P. Larsen and George Schrader. David Hopwood was toastmaster. Each person present was required to make a speech, sing a song, or tell a story and all acquitted themselves well. For the last 10 years the dealers have kept the custom of meeting once each year and enjoying a dinner together.

Those present were A. P. Thilling, Asst. Joseph J. Thorman, Walter Schneider, George S. Schrader, N. P. Larsen, Thomas Walsh, Frank MacDonald, Harry Pierce, Raymond F. Sullivan, E. J. Thomas, I. Rosenbluh, Frank McIlwen, Edward Giles, Joseph Hennessy, D. Hopwood, Vincent Hagerty, Henry T. Oesau, George Oesau, John Stanton, Joseph D. Simone, Gould Turney, Daniel Turney, Morris Rosen, R. J. Ahlgren, L. G. Myers, New York; Melgs F. Russell.

ROBBERS GET $20,000 LOOT IN CALIFORNIA

San Bernardino, Cal., May 12—Robbers who looted the general store of James Hingsworth at Randsburg, on the San Bernardino desert, escaped with more than $20,000, according to a telephone message today. Approximately half the amount taken belonged to citizens who had left their money for safe keeping with the storekeeper. The vault in the store was not locked as the combination was out of order.

Secretary Lansing branded as "utterly false" reports that the administration has under way or contemplating peace overtures to Germany.
